The Origins of the Loeb Classical Library

Founded in 1911 by James Loeb, a German-American banker and philanthropist, the Loeb Classical Library was conceived to make Greek and Latin literature accessible to a broad audience. The series aimed to bridge the gap between scholarly editions and accessible translations, emphasizing fidelity to original texts while providing reliable English translations. Over the decades, the series expanded to include a wide array of classical works, from epic poetry to history, philosophy, and rhetoric.

By the mid-20th century, historical texts from Herodotus to Livy formed a core part of the collection. Volume 128 emerged as a pivotal installment in this evolution, bringing together some of the most influential ancient historians into a single, accessible volume. Its placement within the series reflects the enduring importance of historiography in understanding the ancient world.

The Making of Band 128

Contents and Structure of Loeb Classical Library Band 128

Included Texts and Authors

Band 128 features three major historical works, each representing different periods, regions, and historiographical approaches:

Often called the 'Father of History,' Herodotus' Histories is a foundational text that explores the Greco-Persian Wars, cultural practices, and geographic descriptions across the known world of the 5th century BCE. The Loeb edition offers a reliable translation alongside the Greek text, with extensive footnotes explaining historical and cultural references.

- Thucydides' "History of the Peloponnesian War"

A more analytical and rigorous account, Thucydides' work examines the conflict between Athens and Sparta, emphasizing cause and effect, political realism, and human nature. This work is crucial for understanding classical Greek political thought and historiography. For scholars, students, and history enthusiasts alike, the SHL offers an invaluable window into the past, presenting original texts accompanied by precise translations that facilitate both understanding and critical analysis.

Origins and Evolution of the Scriptores Historiae Loeb Classical Library

Historical Background and Founding Principles

The Loeb Classical Library was established in 1911 by James Loeb, an American philanthropist and scholar, with the vision of making classical literature accessible to a broad audience. The series was conceived to serve as a comprehensive resource that would include Greek and Latin texts, along with translations and scholarly notes, thereby fostering both education and scholarly research.

The Scriptores Historiae segment emerged as a specialized subset within the Loeb series, concentrating on historical writings ranging from ancient chronicles and annals to biographical and historiographical works. The primary goal was to preserve these texts' integrity while rendering them accessible to modern readers who might lack proficiency in original languages but desire a direct engagement with primary sources.

Development Through the 20th and 21st Centuries

Over the decades, the SHL has expanded considerably, reflecting the evolving scope of classical historiography. Early volumes focused on foundational texts from Herodotus, Thucydides, and Xenophon, but subsequent editions incorporated a broader array of sources, including Byzantine chronicles, late antique histories, and even some lesser-known authors.
